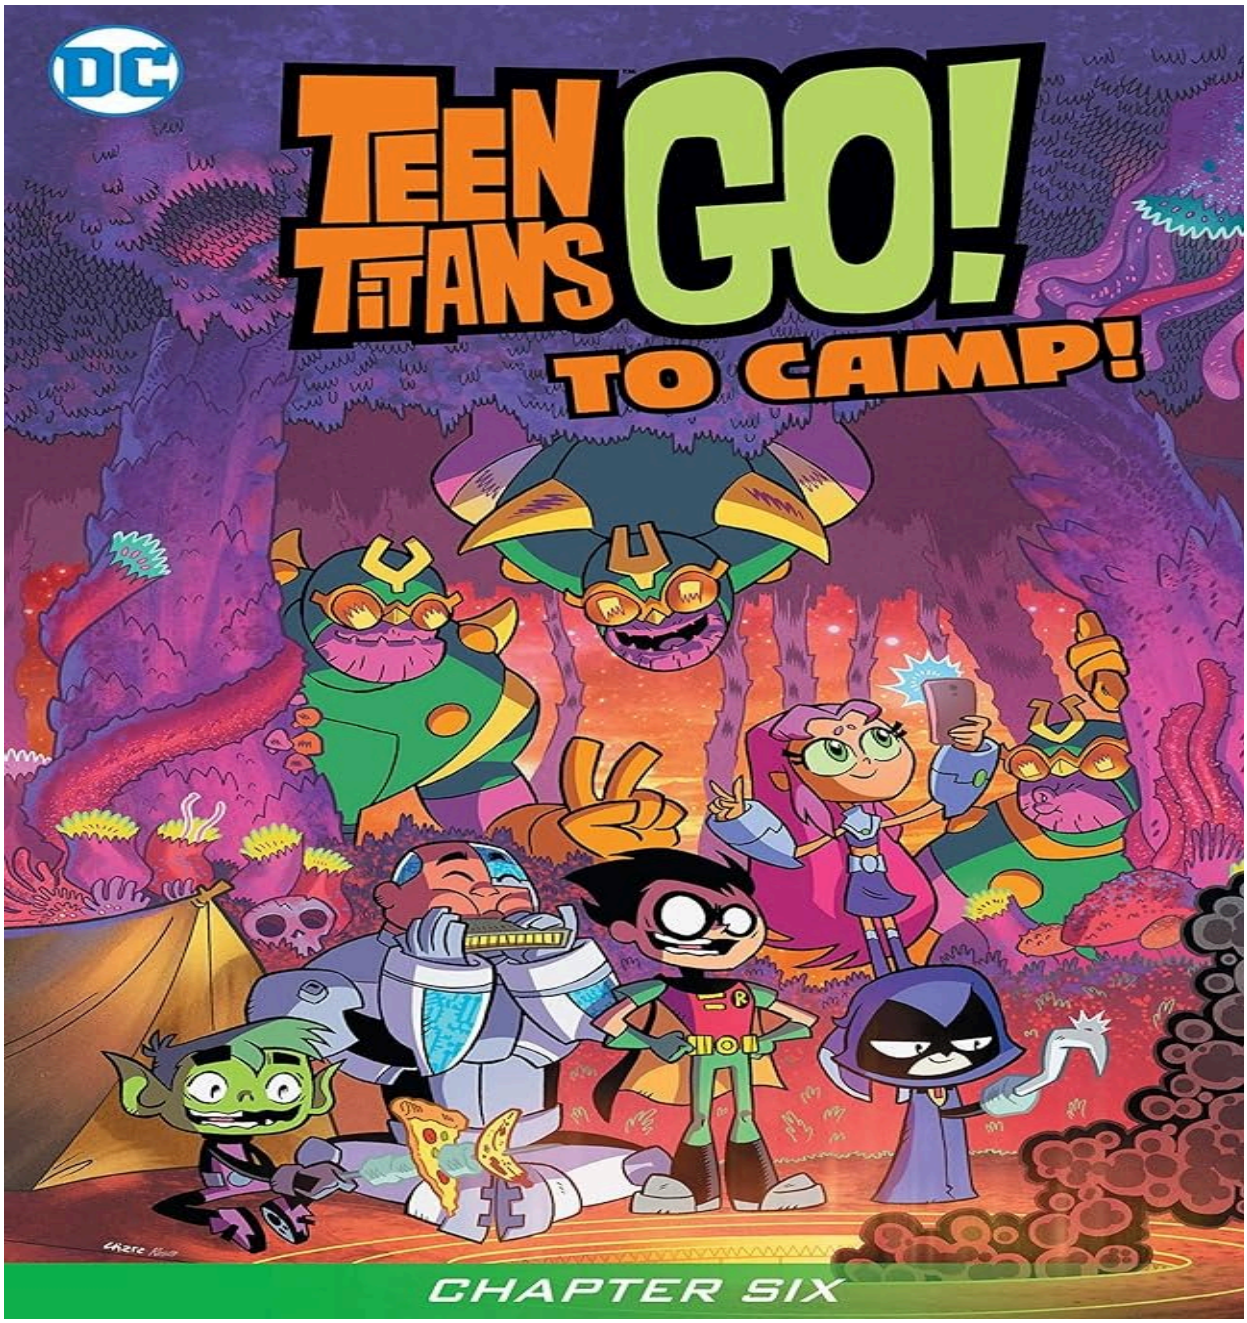
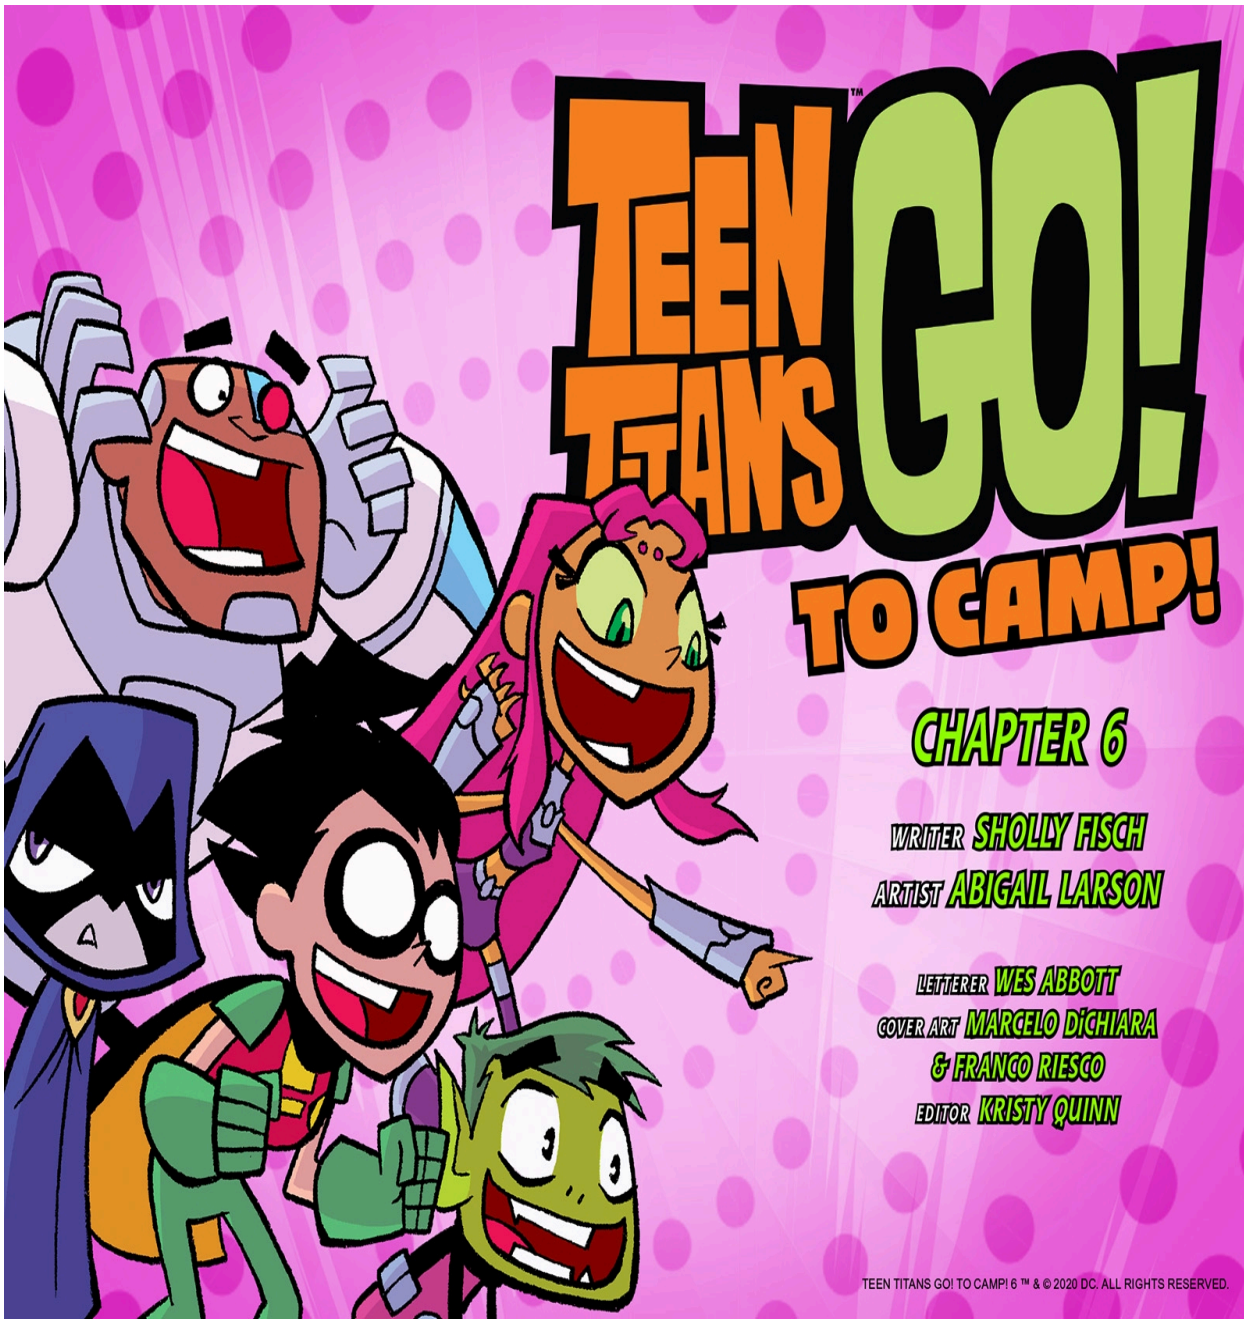
TEEN TITANS GO!
TO CAMP!
CHAPTER SIX

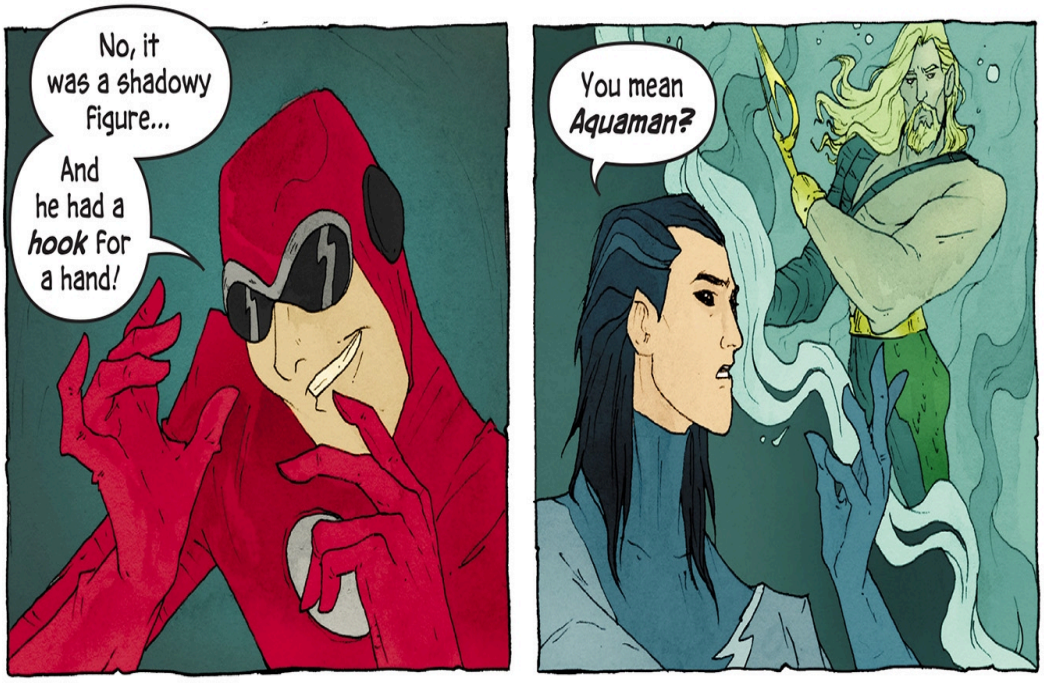


TEEN TITANS GO!
TO CAMP!
CHAPTER SIX



TEEN TITANS GO!
TO CAMP!
CHAPTER 6
WRITER SHOLLY FISCH
ARTIST ABIGAIL LARSON
LETTERER WES ABBOTT
COVER ART MARCELO DiCHIARA
& FRANCO RIESCO
EDITOR KRISTY QUINN
TEEN TITANS GO! TO CAMP! 6 ™ & © 2020 DC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

A letter from camp!
O mighty Trigon the Terrible, your demonic hordes await your command to bathe the outer realms in blood!
Yes, yes, in a minute.
I'm reading a letter from my daughter.
Dear Dad...
We spent our first night at camp around the campfire, trying to scare each other with spooky stories.
But what they didn't know was that, sneaking up behind them, there was a shadowy figure with a...
Neutron laser?
Tuba?



No, it was a shadowy figure...
And he had a hook for a hand!
You mean Aquaman?

Not Aquaman! It...
It...
All right. There was no hook. It was a shadowy lunatic in a mask.
=Ahem=
Mask.

Ah, forget it.
Come on, fellas. We're outta here.
Kalibak has no need for Billy Numerous's puny hook story! I will turn your livers to quivering jelly by telling you of the Terrifying Beast of the Pit!
Sorry, Kalibak. We're a little old to be scared by "monster in the woods" stories.
Besides, this is Apokolips! There are monsters on every street corner!
Exactly! Imagine how bloodcurdling the Terrifying Beast of the Pit must be to strike fear into the hearts of those who dwell in Apokolips!

That's okay, Kalibak. I'll tell a story.
Picture a world unlike any you've ever known. A world where...

EEYAAAAHH!
That's my girl.
I did not realize that the Pretty, Pretty Pegasus was so Frightening.
It's all in how you tell it.

To be continued